Queer Prague

Vydejte se na cestu po stopách queer historie hlavního města. V rámci procházky objevíme neznámá, často opomíjená důležitá místa pro historii české queer komunity, a také ta spojená s osudy významných členů LGBTQIA+ společnosti nejen po roce 1989, ale mnohem dříve. Dozvíte se, kde se nacházel nejmódnější podnik v období První republiky, jaká byla oblíbená společenská hra v prvním vyloženě lesbickém klubu v Praze, kam se chodilo na divoké párty za totáče a také kde vznikl první spolek zaměřen na trans*komunitu. Vycházka se omezí na tři pražské čtvrti: Staré město, Vinohrady a Žižkov.

*Join us in exploring our capital's rich queer history. We will visit little known and often overlooked places that played an important role in the history of the Czech queer community and that are linked to the lives of significant members of the LGBTQIA+ community both long before and after 1989. We will talk about the history of several organizations who advocated for the rights of non-heteronormative people during the course of the 20th century. You will find out what was the most fashionable spot during the era of the First Czechoslovak Republic, which board game was the first lesbians club in Prague's most popular board game, where people went for the wildest parties during the communist totalitarian regime and where the first society focusing on the trans*community was established. The walk will encompass only three Prague quarters: the Old Town, Vinohrady and Žižkov.*

Mgr. Antek Ludwicki

His adventures with the Summer School started when he became an interpreter, assistant and a part of the organization team. At the Faculty of Arts, he teaches not only the beautiful standard Czech language but also spoken Czech which fascinates him the most.

More often than sitting in a library, you find him in one of Prague's pubs or in Žižkov District where one can find a door to another dimension, his favourite bakery and favourite market. He also spends a lot of time in the Rieger Garden.

He always carries a notebook with him so that he can write down non-standard vocabulary that he overhears on the street and he can't imagine his morning without a cup of coffee. He is a lover of indoor and exotic plants, queer and feminist.
